API READINESS WORKSHOP

JUMP-START YOUR PLANNING WITH THIS BEST-PRACTICES WORKSHOP

According to IT research firm Gartner, Inc., 50 percent of all business-to-business collaboration will take place through Web APIs by 2017. Is your organization ready and able to successfully embrace an API journey? Does it have the maturity to envision and embark into the API economy?

In our half-day API Readiness Workshop, you will work with our solution architects to explore, discover and define your API strategy, and to measure your ability to successfully implement this strategy. We start with a thorough understanding of your current technical and development environment along with a review of basic API principles. We continue with a careful review of your organization's ability to adapt to an API-centric model using proven, best-practice maturity concepts. The outcome is a clear, concise API readiness roadmap showing the organizational and technological steps needed to reach your API initiative goals.

Workshops can be hosted by Sirius at one of our locations, or on-site at your facility.

OUTCOMES

Our team will help you identify, define and create an API strategy, understand the importance of sound API governance, define requirements, and build a solid roadmap for your organization's API initiatives. We will focus on identifying:
• Your API maturity and how it matches up against your industry peers
• An API governance strategy that works for you
• API priorities
• A "quick hit" list of API application opportunities
• Next steps for defining your requirements and implementing the roadmap

Our experts will review your roadmap with you, highlighting the steps along the way. Key discussion topics include:
• Your API vision
• The current state
• Key maturity factors and principles
• Market opportunity
