ENTERPRISE MOBILITY SOLUTIONS

Businesses are struggling with integrating and leveraging mobile across the enterprise in order to provide a consistent, seamless user experience. Sirius' mobile experts work with our clients to overcome challenges that include security, connectivity, scalability, multiple platforms and operating systems, and more. Using a collaborative process, they work with key stakeholders to define and understand an organization's strategic goals, objectives and business drivers, and to identify all potential use cases where mobile can deliver value.

A preliminary mobility assessment will determine your business and IT organizations' readiness to support and continuously deliver mobile solutions, identify potential constraints, and result in recommended solutions to ensure success. A mobile maturity assessment is then performed and a scorecard developed, rating your organization's mobile maturity level against the industry. Finally, our mobile experts will work with your key stakeholders to prioritize, define and deliver a mobile roadmap.
